but I still want the sort function to work; I've tried making the key as "y1 y2" instead of y1,y2 but it doesn't fix the problem. If I had a key that looks like this: '69' '709' then it works fine. I'm pretty sure the problem is caused by the spaces but I don't know how to overcome it. Any help would be greatly appreciated. A: Thanks for the feedback, but I think I've found a solution. All I had to do was change the data type of the column from INT to LONG and then it worked.

Trypanosoma cruzi: infection modulates host redox metabolism and endoplasmic reticulum stress during the acute phase of infection in mice. Despite the importance of redox metabolism to the host, host-parasite interaction during Trypanosoma cruzi infection has not been widely described. In the present study, the host redox response and the endoplasmic reticulum (ER) stress observed in the heart during the acute stage of experimental T. cruzi infection were analyzed. Sixty C57BL/6 male mice were infected with different T. cruzi strains, and tissue samples were collected at 30 and 60 days postinfection. The infection with any of the T. cruzi strains used in the present work modulated cardiac redox metabolism, as evidenced by alterations in the levels of major redox-associated metabolites such as nicotinamide adenine dinucleotide (NAD(+)), oxidized nicotinamide adenine dinucleotide (NAD(+)), reduced glutathione (GSH), oxidized glutathione (GSSG), and cysteine-glutathione (Cys-GSH), which were consistently increased during the course of infection. The expression of major oxidative enzymes such as NAD(P)H dehydrogenase, glutathione reductase and cysteine synthase was increased during infection, thereby providing a cellular defense system against oxidative stress. Increased protein levels of the main antioxidant systems, such as superoxide dismutase, catalase, glutathione peroxidase, and glutathione-S-transferase were also observed. These results demonstrate that the redox state during the acute stage of T. cruzi infection was maintained by the maintenance of a gradient in the different
